

Treasure Chest

of 1962

Presented by the Senior Class of AVON HIGH SCHOOL Indianapolis, Indiana Volume X

Memories . .

Alone, alone, all, all alone, — alone in a dark hall as an Avonite remembers.

As surely as the coming of Autumn has brought a colorful pageant of falling leaves, and the familiar sounds and scenes of school life, September has meant the outlines of a new school yearbook, and month by month, day by day, the carefully planned pages have been filled with the reminders of valued friendships, hard work, and happiness.

The TREASURE CHEST staff has attempted to bring you the memories of 1961 - 62 in the yearbook. As we remember this year, we think of the people we knew and the places we went. We remember the problems that we encountered, the laughs that we shared, and all the happy, fun-filled, and busy days of the school year. We say thank you Avon, thank you for the happy memories of the wonderful years spent here, that will remain in our hearts forever. Stored there as realities pass into memories . . .

Arriving by busses, students start the day, sometimes long before classes begin.

We laughed, we loved, we learned,

From the busses students trudge down long halls to get to classes, the bookstore, lockers, the office, or just to visit that certain someone.

Before being admitted to classes after an absence, an excuse pass has to first be obtained. Mr. Garrard could be found in his office every morning okeying those valuable pieces of paper.

"School Days-School Days, Good of Golden Rules Day!" So who needs 'emi These are the mumbles and grumbles that can be heard any morning in the halls of Avon.

Clusters of students can be found in any one of several places—in the halls talking and re-talking the latest gassip—in the office getting passes or absence excuses—or those "Johnny come lately" students rushing down the hall who can never seem to make it to school on time.

These are the sights and scenes that are around us as we start the day. Memories are all around us.

Class to class, building to building these are the pathways that are trad by some hurrying, some scurrying feet of Avanites.

we lived,

Typically, Avon is the sight of students gathered around their lockers carrying on gassip sessions, learning the government test questions and enswers, or having fun.

Amidst our fun and laughter we found it necessary to take time out to attend our classes.

Students seem to find going steady a most important part of high school life.

Sometimes happy, sometimes blue, and forever on the ga, that's us. We like to study, but we like to have fun, too. Yes, we laughed, we loved, we learned, we loved, we lived, we worked, we played, as the social wheels whirled very brightly.

We worked, we played, as the social

Time out for lunch.

"We've gotta win" are the pleas of our cheerleaders as they cheer the Orioles to a victory.

"How much do you want to bet I wouldn't!" Words of wisdom such as these are attered by Senior boys as they proceed to barrow Mr. Garrard's hub-caps

wheels whirled brightly

And back home again. As we leave we take with us the memories of days spent with fellow classmates and Avanites, in fun, loughter, and work. Preparing for another day we face life squarely for what ever it may bring

Student life would not be complete without a few members of the yearbook staff working hard to complete our memory book for you

That once a year event, a packed gym, returning lettermen stepping anto the floor, four beautiful candidates on the arms of handsome escorts, a hush spreading over the crowd as all ears strain for the long awaited news. "The Homecoming Queen is . . . " The inevitable whispers of, "I know who it will be," circulated through the silent crowd. Phoebe Everling, Sophomore will wear the crown. A thunderous applicate echoes through the gym as Phoebe and her escort step into the magic circle for the crowning ceremony that is to follow.

Candidates were: Patty Wilson, Freshman, escorted by Bob Freeman, Carol Jones, Junior, escorted by Jim Burdge; Rae Carole Larsh, Senior escorted by Danny Parsons. The Homecoming Queen, Phoebe Everling, Sophomore, was escarted by John Floragan

Una Scanlan, played by Judie Beecham assists Raland Graves, played by Larry Thomas as he tries to solve the suystery of the dean.

Prom time is that once a year whirl that highlights the school year. Dreams transformed into realities as commonplace students assumed the roles of poised princes and princesses.

As the midnight hour enveloped the Sea Fantasy, couples reluctantly abandoned the Student Center at Wabash College to invade various post prom parties.

The merry-making continued until dawn when, with a sudden burst of energy, the prom couples became picnickers and headed toward many state parks. Hiking, bicycling and horse back riding provided many, many new adventures in a never ceasing search for fun.

Then as suddenly as it began the week-end of fun passed from a reality into a memory along with many others to fill our memory book.

Master of Ceremonies Keith Keppel chuckles on he looks ever his prom program

Couples during the banquet, talked of their plans for the rest of the "loveliest night of the year."

Scholastic . .

The members of the faculty have been the unsung heroes of our academic achievements; they have been the people behind our courses of study. Often during these past four years, we have found fault with them. Now, however, we realize that it was we who were at fault, for all their efforts in teaching, disciplining, and counseling were for our benefit. They have worked to help mold the lives of their students, the faculty was a main influence in our school lives. Although at times their discipline seemed harsh, their assistance will never be forgotten.

To these people we, the Class of 1962, say with all sincerity, "Thank you." We shall always remember you with the very deepest of respect and appreciation.

Chief administrator of Avon High School is principal John Garrard, who efficiently manages the school's affairs.

Mr. Garrard with his many responsibilities connected with the tremendous task of directing a first-class high school, always had time to answer our many questions, help us plan better schedules to fit our individual needs, and to perform the many duties that go along with his never ending job.

Mr. Hohnstreiter, an essential assistant principal, had the time-consuming job of running the junior high building.

Last, but certainly not least, were the two men who make Avan High School possible, Mr. Black, County Superintendent, and Mr. Broyles, Township Trustee.

Math And Science Vital To

You think you have problems? Not as many as the Avon math students who struggle daily over the problems in their world of protractors, propositions, and formulas. There are many classes of math offered during the four high school years at Avon. Although only one year of math is required, many students continue to enroll in math courses each year. Whether a student enralls in required courses or elective courses, he obtains knowledge that is vital to college-bound pupils.

Frank Hart explains a fundamental advanced algebraic equation.

Steve Dunbar watches intently as Susan Byerly weighs a compound on the analytical balance.

Georgianna Bland and Vicki Birck balance the ecoles in a buoyancy force experiment

College - Bound Students

Joining the fast-moving atomic age, the Avon students gather knowledge of the world about them through the influence and guidance of members of the Science Department. Biology, chemistry, and physics enable pupils to take advantage of the opportunities offered them and to complete their experiments with modern facilities, under the guidance of Mr. Beldauf, instructor.

The chemistry classes conducted experiments and learned the use of many complicated formulas. In physics, elements of heat, light and sound were studied

With the Science Department's help and the aid of the teachers and advisors, Avon has become more aware of the features of the physical world.

Through the halls comes a faint tap-tapping. Hunting it down, one finds a room of gals and guys madly picking away on their typewriters. This is one of the classes of our Commerce Department. You may find, if you venture down the hall, a class of ambitious sophomores working on an interesting chapter in General Business, or you may hear a faint ticking of a stopwatch while the shorthand class takes its ever so daily speed tests.

Social Studies through Participation

The study of history and current events is all-important in predicting and coping with the future. Avon students study world, national, state, and local events in the various history and government classes in order to further their knowledge of life in the world of today and of their roles in the world of tomorrow.

Others is Preparation for the Future

Since nearly all activities depend upon a practical knowledge of language, English is certainly the most basically important subject taught at Avon. Without a proper understanding of our native language, textbooks and classroom instruction in other subjects would be worthless.

Although only three years are required by Indiana state law, Avon students must have four if at all possible; some take all five available courses, including the optional college preparatory course.

College English, offered for the first time this year, may be taken in place of, or in addition to, English 12. This new course includes theme writing, grammar study, English literature, public speaking, and dramatics.

The research paper was the climax of a semester of composition. In this picture, Steve Parker reads from the lectern.

Avon's Vocational Courses

Richard Rice asks the advice of Mr. Lennon as the shop class looks on "Hand me that wrench." "Oh! I hit my finger with the hammer!" These comments are not uncommon in the shop.

Under the guidance of Mr. Lennon many pupils enrolled in shop courses this year. A large variety of courses were offered; agriculture, mechanical drawing, machine and wood shops.

Shop courses are important to most boys because it gives them a knowledge of the various areas of industrial arts which help them to select a vocation.

Prepare Us for Tomorrow

Working at one of the sewing tobles Sandy Blair hurries to finish her project for the Sophomore Clathing Class.

When walking through the halls of Avon, you may often hear a fellow student comment, "Boyl Something smells good! What's cooking?"

They mean, of course, in the Home Economics classes, where girls are taught the fundamentals of cooking.

The girls also learn the techniques of sewing, the differences in fabrics, the most flattering color for each pupil, and tactful dressing.

In advanced classes, Mrs. Judith Lydick teaches Family Living and Housing.

Activities . . .

Extracurricular activities are an integral part of our school days. We learn not only in classrooms, but in all phases of our lives. Activities offer a stimulating challenge, new friendships, the ability to work in harmony with fellow students, and a wealth of knowledge that only experience can provide.

Georgianna Bland, Editor-in-Chief, Mrs. Marie Mitchell, Advisor; and Vicki Birch, Amistant Editor; spent many hours planning the capy, pictures, and the layout for this yearbook.

Every person who has been a part of the TREASURE CHEST staff will agree that it is one of the toughest, but most pleasant and rewarding experiences he will ever have.

Putting together a yearbook not only means getting out of classes and meeting new people, but it also means meeting deadlines, accepting criticism, and working during school, after school, and on vacations.

There are many pleasant memories to remember about the TREASURE CHEST experiences this year—the copy and pictures that just didn't seem to meet the deadlines, dozens of pictures of unknown people and the encouragement of our excellent sponsor Mrs. Mitchell, who somehow pulled us through the year.

Opening the school year with a bang, the members of the SHAKESPEAREAN ECHO staff launched their subscription campaign. Under the supervision of Mrs. Marie A. Mitchell the school paper was changed completely. The SHAKESPEAREAN ECHO was, in previous years, classified as a magazine but, through much effort and hard work, the staff changed the magazine form into strictly a newspaper.

With each issue of the SHAKESPEAREAN ECHO each detail must be carefully planned to issue an effective display of the year's activities. Skill in page balancing and picture planning add to the quality of our paper.

Stancils are an important task in every newspaper. Here Judie Beecham, Rodger Loughrey, and Glarie Bortley, editor; are running stancils for the newspaper.

Outstanding journalists of the ECHO and TREASURE CHEST staffs worked hard to become members of Quill & Scroll, the journalism honorary, sponsored by Mrs. Marie Mitchell. The society functioned to give recognition to those who have worked energetically for either the yearbook or school Paper.

Gold key awards and certificates were presented to the senior members who had to be outstanding in journalism, scholastics, and activities. Objectives of the National Hanor Society are to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character in students of Avon High School.

Mr. Haynes, Larry Flanagan, Marilyn Dean, and Vicki Birch talk over sales strategy for the pennants.

During the meetings of the Student Council, student representatives promote better relations between the pupils and teachers of Avon. Mr. Hubert Haynes, Sponsor, and Larry Flanagan, President, guide the council members as they discuss rules and policies for students and teachers.

Among the activities of the Student Council were the planning of convocations for the student body and the selling of pennants to promote school spirit.

"Helpfulness and Kindness to others." These are the words which guide the Sunshine Society of Avon High School.

New members were initiated into the organization on October 3, 1961 in the Avon Methodist Church, in an impressive candle light ceremony conducted by the officers.

Activities of the year were: the operation of a coat check at the ball games to raise money for the Riley Fund, a Spring bake sale, the operation of a toy repair shop for Christmas gifts to needy families, sending Christmas gifts to the Hendricks County Home, and the annual Spring Tea held for mothers and Ideal Ladies of the Sunshine members, during which the new officers were installed.

Sponsored by Mrs. Lydick, the Society flourished under her capable direction.

Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y

The purpose of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y organizations is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character. This is accomplished by living up to the ideals of clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship and clean living.

The joint activities of the clubs included the sponsoring of a very successful Christmas donce and the presenting of the Good Citizen Awards at the monthly convocation to one girl and one boy who have been outstanding citizens at Avon High School.

The Tri-Hi-Y also gave gifts during the Christmas season to the patients at Central Hospital while the Hi-Y provided a Christmas basket for a needy family in the community.

Under the inspirational direction of Mrs. Darlene Creech, Tri-Hi-Y sponsor, and Mr. Walter Ross, Hi-Y sponsor, both clubs have greatly improved the standards of living of A.H.S. by living up to their ideals.

"Get that tip" shout the team-mates of Phyllis George and Patty Wilson as they jump to the tip ball. Mrs. Jones, spansor, referees many of the basketball games.

"Let's go girls!" That's the excited cry of the Avon GAA Club. The purpose of the club is to promote clean sportsmanship and to stimulate participation in girls' athletics. Some of the activities of the GAA include bowling, basketball, volleyball, and baseball. The club also sponsors the class basketball tourney to create better school and class spirit.

The primary aim of the Future Farmers of America is the development of agricultural leadership, cooperation, and citizenship.

The main activities of the Avon F.F.A. have been centered around its judging teams. The F.F.A. teams judge livestock, dairy, crops, forestry, and entomology. The F.F.A. also enjoyed a field trip to the Moorman Feed Plant at Quincy, Illinois. These activities have been supported by dues and fund raising projects such as scrap metal drives, and the sale of wrenches and de-icer for car windows.

"The High Steppers" executed drift at the Avon basketball games. The Avon majorettes are: Sandy Nichols, Cathy Dykes, head major ette; Sue Adamson, Kay Yates, Carolyn Price, Rae Larsh, and Julia Olinstead. These girls deserve much credit for their hard work and excellent performances.

Under the expert guidance of Mr. Joseph Horton, the Avon marching band has performed magnificently at the basketball games and in many parades. Spectators will never forget the intricate drills and the spectacular performances of this group during half-time at the games. Members also spent many long hours practicing diligently for the State Fair Contest, in which they placed fourteenth.

The Avon band also participated in the Zionsville Marching Band Contest, the Formers Day Parade and the Indiana University Band Day.

Eric Isaacs, as Avon's drum major, has exerted much effort to help the band gain perfection

Striving for Perfection

Athletics . . .

Athletics . . . spirit, competition, sportsmanship, tradition. Win or lose, Avon's fighting spirit was always present in our athletics.

Fall weather and gathering crowds were the stagehands for every exciting football game.

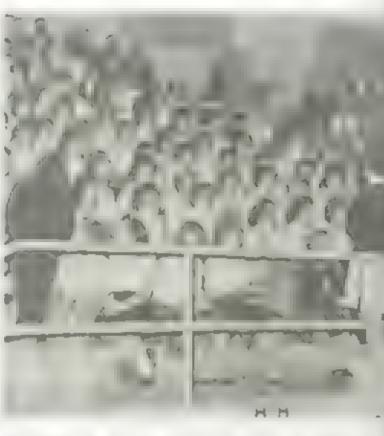

As winter weather came, athletic enthusiasm was centered around our basketball team.

Spring brought renewed interest in outdoor events: baseball and track.

Directly or indirectly, athletics have been significant in all our lives.

Working hand in hand with the Pep Club the varsity cheerleaders spread enthusiasm and sprit throughout the crowd. The cheerleaders are Lana Scott Judie Beecham. Shirles Hiner and Cheryl Goodman.

The action of the Pep Club is shown in this informal shot as they cheer their team to victory

"Victory, victory is our cry!" is the anxious shout heard ringing through the gym at ballgames. This is the cry of the Avon Pep Club.

Some of the activities of the club this year were the Pre-Tourney pep rallies, convocations, and other activities. The Pep Club is organized to help in increasing Avon students' school spirit and enthusiasm for sports.

Under the direction of Mr. Garrard and Mr. Horton, the club tries its best to look outstanding.

The Fighting Orioles

Coach Caparale gives last minute instructions to the team

Because only 23 boys went out for football, six of whom were seniors, Coach Easter's season was uphill from the very start. The varsity team consisted of inexperienced players, since this was the first year for a varsity team, this accounts for the "never-say-die" Orioles winning only one game.

After losing nine straight games the Orioles railled for the last game of the season and defeated Plainfield's Reserve.

Even though the scores look bad, the team played under difficult conditions. Many of which were injuries, ineligibility of our quarterback, and inexperience.

Even with all the handscaps the Orioles suffered, we feel they deserve credit for their effort and team work since this was only the second year for football at Avon.

Track, the world's oldest sport was carried on at A.H.S. by a twenty-seven man squad, led by senior letterman Larry Flanagan. The boys will be in training soon and their abilities will be brought forth in the upcoming track meets of 1962.

The A.H.S. baseball team made up of mostly underclassmen with three returning lettermen had hopes for a successful season. Under the capable leadership of Mr. Haynes, coach, the team gained both victory and defeat.

Seniors..

No longer was the senior year a dream; now it was a reality. Diplomas were looming ahead, tangible proof that years of learning and growing in high school would soon be over.

Surely no one will ever forget those wacky senior cords along with many other senior privileges that one only realizes when he is a senior. But they come through long hard work and perseverance by class officers, sponsors, and those willing to work for the good of everyone.

Sunday, May 13, 1962, fifty-five seniors solemnly filed into the Avon Gym to listen to the Baccalaureate sermon.

On May 18, the class of 1962, will write finis to this chapter of their lives, the graduates review four wonderful years. Knowing they are prepared they eagerly face the future, with tears in their eyes and wonderful memories in their hearts the class of 1962 bids a refuctant and solemn forewell to their Alma Mater.

Anticipate the Future

Calling ourselves seniors, for the first time, was a little frightening, for now the school looked up to us. It was exciting to show off our senior cords, but this year had its serious times. We, as seniors, had to uphold long established traditions and to maintain the dignity which is synonymous with the word senior.

The quiet moments when each senior reflects his four years of high school. At last there is commencement! Through salty tears, seniors realize that their high school education has come to an end. We have completed our four years at Avon and we have shared hard work, parties, and projects. As leaders we have helped in making this year a success. As members of the class of 1962 we will always cherish our days at Avon. Our high school days are now but a memory.

Underclassmen . . .

As juniors we look upon our first two years as necessary evils and our next with respect. We now have a more mature outlook and a wider variety of interests. Now our minds are filled with thoughts of scholarship exams, drivers licenses, concession sales, and the highlight of the year, the junior-senior prom.

Sophomores are known as "silly sophomores" to upper classmen. But disregarding our nickname we devote much time to academic subjects. In English we are faced with the great task of memorizing parts of Julius Caesar. When not memorizing Caesar, there is still studying to be done, like learning axioms and postulates in geometry, and conjugating verbs in foreign languages. Of course, time can still be found for telephone conversations, dates, slumber parties, and ordering class rings.

As freshmen we have stepped into a totally new phase of our lives. We'll never forget our first days when getting lost was routine. During this year some of us will never forget that once in a life time ordeal, the first date. However, those days as "freshies" we will cherish, along with our remaining high school years, throughout our lives.

THE OPTIMIST CREED

Promise yourself . . . .

To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind

To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet

To make all your friends feel that there is something in them

To look at the sunny side of everything and make your Optimism come true

To think only of the best, to work only for the best and to expect only the best

To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own

To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to greater achievements of the future

To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile

To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time

To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear and too happy to permit the presence of trouble
